2/17/2012 – GPM Ltd. Announces Partnership with Avanza Proyectos

Project and Business Coaching

GPM has partnered with Avanza Project and Business Coaching, to offer Sustainability in Project Management Courses in Mexico and Spain. Avanza will also serve as GPM's Spanish Language provider in the US and Canada.

Joel Carboni, GPM's President commented "We are thrilled to welcome Avanza as our newest training partner. Their strong reputation as a consulting and coaching organization coupled with their corporate vision for environmental stewardship brings tremendous value to our organization and allows us further promote sustainable project management practices throughout the world."

With the partnership, GPM has expanded their course offerings from the US and Canada to the UK, Republic of Ireland, Australia, and now Mexico and Spain.

Martha L. González, Avanza's Director of Continuing Education, commented "We are very excited to share GPM's integral approach of Project Management. We had been looking for a way to incorporate sustainability into our operations and, thanks to this partnership; we will be able to accomplish this personal and professional goal. GPM courses will give our clients the opportunity to develop projects in the greenest possible way and, therefore, take care of our biggest, most important stakeholder, the Earth."

About Avanza

Avanza Project and Business Coaching is a Mexican company, focused on project management and business coaching, training, and consulting. Our courses are based on PMI's Project Management methodology and reinforced with human development components. Besides helping our clients become better project managers, we work to enhance their leadership, communication, and team working skills.
